Your profile in plain language

Aarav, your three strongest traits are Creative (88), Social (63) and Analytical (57). Creative gives you an original, expressive side that enjoys ideas, design and stories. Social adds your care for people, and Analytical adds your logical, curious mind.

There is a gap of 28 points between your third trait, Analytical (57), and your fourth, Entrepreneurial (29), so your top three stand out clearly.

2 Your Strengths

Aarav, your three leading traits are Creative (V), Social (S) and Analytical (A). Here is what each one looks like in your everyday life, and how they work as a team.

Creative: Strong

Score 88 · Level 3

A clear, settled strength

- New ideas come easily to you, and you like to express them in your own way.
- You almost always notice colour, design, sound or style around you.
- People often come to you for a fresh or unusual idea.
- You do your best work when you have the freedom to create.

Social: Strong

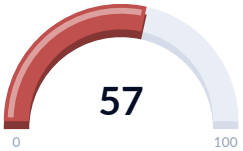

Score 63 · Level 3

A clear, settled strength

- Caring for others comes easily to you, and people trust you.
- Friends often come to you when they need help or someone to listen.
- You almost always notice when someone is left out or upset.
- You enjoy explaining things and helping others learn.

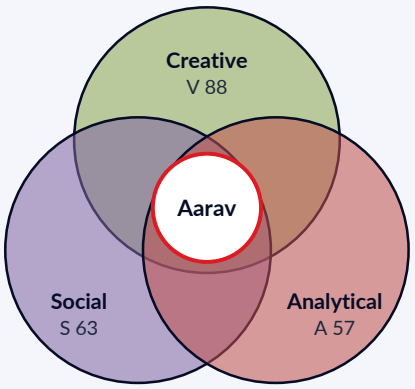

Analytical: Medium

Score 57 · Level 2

A growing strength

- You often enjoy puzzles, numbers and questions that make you think.
- You usually like to understand the reason behind things.
- You are building confidence in breaking big problems into small steps.
- With practice, your logical thinking can become a real strength.

How your strengths work together

Creative (88, Level 3) is the clear anchor; Social (63, Level 3) is a settled strength too; and Analytical (57, Level 2) is a growing support. Social and Creative together help you express ideas in ways that reach and move people. Analytical and Creative together help you find new solutions: you imagine an idea and then test whether it works.
